PREFACE.

AT A GATHERING of Shimers, held at the "Old Homestead" along the Lehigh River, in the fall of 1902, the writer was discussing with cousins from Easton and Phillipsburg the question, "What relation are we, one to another?" and, to our surprise, we learned that our grandfathers were those three good brothers, John, Joseph and Edward Shimer, sons of Jacob and Elizabeth (Beyl) Shimer, at whose old home we were picnicking that day.

This started me to "figure out" what relation every other Shimer was to me. The result is a genealogy of the Shimer family, on which I have been working for a number of years, a work which has been very fascinating, as well as interesting.

The data have been gathered from old Bible records, church records and tombstones, also from deeds, wills and other official documents, which we found in court houses, college archives and public libraries.

We, however, were surprised at the inaccuracy of statements found in some histories; for instance, we read in the "Northampton County History" that Isaac Shimer, who was a prisoner of war, died in imprisonment, January 14, 1777, yet we know that he escaped and lived to be 88 years old, and lies buried at the old Williams Township Church.

In the "History of Lehigh County," we read that John Shimer, of Shimersville, was a son of Jacob, and a grandson of Adam, who was probably a son of Daniel. The records show that he was a son of Jacob, and a grand son of Jacob, the ancestor of the Shimers of Lehigh and Northampton Counties. Adam Shimer had one son by the name of Jacob. Adam was the son of Michael, one of the "three brothers" who came to this country in 1749.

We often heard that the Shimers of Eastern Pennsylvania were descendants of "three brothers," yet records prove that the ancestor of most of the Shimers of Eastern Pennsylvania was Jacob Scheimer, who was in America many years before the "three brothers" came over. In fact, he was married the second time, and had thirteen children, some married before the "three brothers" arrived on these shores. For these reasons particular care has been taken, and a careful foundation laid to build upon.

There are two branches of the Shimer family in America. Whether they were of the same family before arriving on these shores has not as yet been determined.

The first American ancestor of the old Shimer families of Lehigh and Northampton Counties, Pa., and Warren County, as well as those of the "Valley of the Minisink" of New Jersey, was Jacob Scheimer. He, in all probability, came to this country between the years 1700 and 1710. By religious profession, he and his family were Lutherans.

William Ruttinghuysen, grandfather of Jacob Scheimer's wife, came from Broig, Holland. He settled in Germantown, Pa. He was the first American Mennonite Bishop and the great grandfather of the celebrated astronomer, David Rittenhouse. His name became famous on account of his having established, on the Wissahickon, the first paper mill in America. This mill supplied the paper for the first Bible printed on this continent.

He (William Ruttinghuysen) was the owner of over three hundred acres of land on the west side of Main Street, Germantown, Pa.

It is on a deed given to John Ashmead in 1728 for part of this tract of land that we see the name of Jacob Scheimer and his wife, Margaret, daughter of Heivert Papen.

The exact date of their marriage is not known, but documents prove that they were married between the years 1720 and 1722. One of these documents is a certificate on file in the Register of Wills office, and reads as follows: "These are to certify to all persons whom it may concern, that we, the here under written heirs of Heivert Papen have made up the accounts with Clans Rittinghuysen and Abraham Tunis, the executors of our fathers last will and testament, this seventeenth day of March, one thousand, seven hundred and nineteen and twenty (1719-20). They having disbursed by their accounts, one hundred and ninety-nine pounds, nineteen shillings and four pence to the bringing of us up and repairing of houses, as also, paid unto us in Bonds and Bills the sum of one hundred and four pounds and fifteen shillings. The receipt whereof, we do hereby acknowledge, and own ourselves satisfied therewith. In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands the day and year above written.

GERHARD BROWNBACK,
JAN JANSEN,
GERTRUDE PAPEN,
MARGARET PAPEN."

Brownback and Jansen signed the above as representatives of their wives, but Gertrude and Margaret Papen being unmarried appear in their own names.

The memorandum dated 1722, found among the Rittenhouse papers, already referred to, mentions the names of Brownback, Jansen and Scheimer as representatives of the three married daughters of Heivert Papen and the names of Catherine and Christian, the two single daughters, which, in connection with the above-mentioned certificate, is presumptive evidence that they were married between the years 1720 and 1722.

These first German settlers are noted in history for their high standard of character, refinement and general thrift, having left their Fatherland not to better their worldly condition, but to secure freedom of worship in Penn's liberal province.

Jacob Scheimer was an ardent adherent of the Augsburg Confession of Faith, as his subsequent religious history shows, and, as there were no Lutheran Churches in Germantown at that time, it is possible that he was married by either the Mennonites, as her grandfather was a Mennonite Bishop, or by the Quakers.

Rev. Mann, of the Lutheran Theological Seminary of Philadelphia, in a historical discourse, said: "Two hundred years ago the first German emigrants came to our beautiful Pennsylvania; they came as Christians, they were few in number, and being unprovided with churches, they united with the Quakers and Mennonites, and worshipped with them; but all historians agree that the Mennonites kept no records from 1710 to 1770, or they were lost."

Margaret's signature is on a deed dated October 7, 1728, also on a deed dated March 26, 1730, to William Dewees, showing that she was alive at that time; she died, however, shortly after this.

The exact date of her death and the place of interment can not be determined.

The deed, above referred to (Ashmead deed), is as follows:

This indenture made the fifth day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and twenty-eight (1728). Between Jacob Scheimer of Bebbers Township in the county of Philadelphia, Yoeman, and Margaret his wife, and Gerard Brownbeck of Winesence Township in the County of Chester, Yoeman, and Mary his wife, and Christian als Styntie Papen of the same Township, Spinster. They the said Margaret, Mary and Christian being the children of Heivert Papen late of Germantown in the said County, Yoeman of the one part, and John Ashmead of Germantown, Blacksmith of the other part.

Whereas; the said Heivert Papen by force and virtue of some good Conveyance or Assurance in Law duly had and executed came in his life time lawfully seized in his demesne as of Fee of and in a certain plantation or tract of land situated in the Township of Germantown aforesaid; Beginning at a corner Black Oak Saplin by William Streper's land, etc. etc. containing by computation one hundred and fifty four acres, together with the appurtenances.

And the said Heivert Papen being so thereof seized did make his last will and testament in writing bearing date the thirtieth day of January Anno Dom. one thousand seven hundred and eight (1708), and thereby devised the said described tract of land unto his wife Elizabeth during her widowhood and the remainder over to be divided amongst his five daughters Styntie, Mary, Gertrude, Margaret and Elizabeth. In fee and died so seized thereof.

And the said Elizabeth, the mother is since died and the said Elizabeth the daughter is also departed this life, and the said Gertrude als. Katherine is intermarried with Benjamin Howel.

Now this Indenture Witnesseth; That the said Jacob Scheimer and Margaret his wife, Gerard Brownback and Mary his wife and Christian Papen, for and in consideration of the sum of fifty six pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania to them well and truly paid by the said John Ashmead, the receipt thereof they do hereby acknowledge, have granted, bargained, sold etc. etc. unto the said John Ashmead and his heirs and assigns.

Sealed and delivered in the presence of us, John Roberts Richard Gabel and others.

Memorandum: The first day of October Anno Dom. 1728 before me Dirk Jansen one of ye Justices of the Peace of the City and County of Philadelphia came the within named Jacob Scheimer and Margaret his wife, and Gerard Brownback and Mary his wife, and Christian Papen and brought this writing indented which they respectfully acknowledge to be their Deed and desire that the same may be recorded as their Deed according to an Act of Assembly of this province in their behalf made.

And the said Margaret and Mary being of full age and secretly and apart examined and contents being to them distinctly read they willingly consented.

In witness whereof I have here unto set my hand and seal the day of above said.

The children of this first marriage were

Abraham, who married Lena Westbrook,

Anthony, (No record)

Elizabeth, who married a Mr. Vickerson,

Mary, who married Michael Shoemaker,

Catherine, who married a Mr. Young, and Sarah.

After his wife, Margaret, died, Jacob Scheimer married again. Only the Christian name of his second wife, Elizabeth, is known.

The names of Jacob Scheimer and his wife, Elizabeth, appear frequently in the old Lutheran Church book of that denomination in Lower Saucon Township, as communicants and sponsors at the baptism of infants of well known families.

The children of this marriage were Jacob, Conrad, Samuel, Edward, Peter, Isaac and John.

When and why Jacob Scheimer removed from Germantown we do not know; about 1728 we have record of his residence in Bebbers Township, County of Philadelphia, and in 1734 in Skippack, Pa. Some time after 1736 he moved to the uplands above Redington, Pa., his property extending down to the Lehigh River.

The surroundings of Jacob Scheimer were now changed: He was sixty-one years of age. He had his second wife and nine children, seven by his first wife and two by his second, when he came to settle on the banks of the Lehigh River, which became his permanent home, and where he was blessed with five more children.

His life spent in Germantown and vicinity, with its cleared and cultivated land, its population and its industries, can hardly be compared to the hardships he must have endured when he settled on the banks of the Lehigh.

William Allen and others, of Philadelphia, were granted large tracts of land; and in 1735, one hundred thousand acres in the wilderness portion of Bucks county—now Northampton—were thrown open to settlement. On August 26th, 1736, David Potts bought of William Allen 110 acres, and on April 29th, 1740, Jacob Scheimer bought of David Potts the said 110 acres, situated on the southern banks of the Lehigh River, then known as the "West Branch of the Delaware," in Bucks County, as the county of Northampton was not erected until March 11th, 1752. For many years the place was known as "Shimertown," and can be seen on the old maps of Northampton County. The place is now Redington, Pa.

Whether Jacob Scheimer lived on the land before he bought it, or whether he bought it of Potts before leaving Philadelphia County can not be determined, but from 1740 to the present day that property has been in the possession of the Shimer family.

We fear that we of the present generation can hardly realize the hardships and privations our forefathers endured in those days. A short sketch of the "Character of the pioneers," from the "History of Northampton County," will give us a faint idea of their trials.

As it was written about the men who settled in the county in 1740 to 1742, the time that Jacob Scheimer and his family settled "in the wilderness portion of Bucks County," it undoubtedly referred to him as well as others.

"It is not a little remarkable that every permanent settlement within the borders of the county, was made by people in whom a deep religious feeling was the predominating sentiment of action.

In other places—in Virginia, Maryland, and New Amsterdam—the white colonists had come into the western wilderness wholly as a matter of pecuniary profit. But here, all were earnest religionists, and subordinated all other questions to that of liberty of conscience. Of course, when they took up their home by the clear waters of the Delaware and Lehigh, they were not insensible to the prospect of worldly advantage; they foresaw that their industry and frugality would cause the fertile forest land of Penn to blossom like the rose, but after all the question of religious freedom was paramount.

The Lutherans upon the Lower Lehigh, the Mennonites, the Dunkers, Schwenkfelders and Reformed, and last but not least, the lowly Moravians, who settled at Nazareth and Bethlehem, in 1740 and 1742, each and all set up God's altar in the wilderness home, and made His worship their first duty and their chief delight.

To-day, the descendants of these steadfast pioneers are proud of that ancestry. And yet, how little do we realize the labor, privation, trials, and dangers incurred by them in laying the foundation of all the plenty, comfort, and security which we now enjoy.

It was, with those pioneers, one long attack against the obstinacy of nature, and a continued defence against the active forces of savage hostility. When they came to make for themselves new homes in those solitudes, their journeys were accomplished in a manner very different from that of travel at the present day. Now the poorest and most ignorant emigrants who leave their European homes to settle in the western land of promise, cross the ocean in swift steamers and are from them transferred to railway trains which whirl them over mountains and rivers to the place of their destination. But when our forefathers entered these woods, no railway nor canal nor stage coach lightened the toils of their migration. There was not so much as a road over which they could travel. Those who came up by way of the lower settlements of Bucks County, passed over the Indian 'Minisink path' which reached the Lehigh at the mouth of the Saucon, while those who ascended the Perkiomen Valley (which in all probability Jacob Scheimer did), and thence crossed the ridge, had not so much as even a trail to guide them. The migratory journey was invariably a laborious one. Heads of families took the lead on foot, always with axe, and often with rifle in hand, while the more helpless ones brought up the rear.

When they reached streams of size, fords must be sought; for there were neither ferries nor bridges. At night it was but a light shelter of boughs, a bivouac fire—kindled by flint and steel—for safety against wild beasts, a slender meal from such coarse supplies as they carried with them, a few fervent words in English, or in the guttural German, thanking the Father in Heaven for all His mercies through the day, and then that profound sleep, which severe toil and clear conscience were sure to bring.

In the morning they were astir long before the first sunbeams shone through their leafy screen, and, never neglecting to thank God for protection through the night, they soon resumed their way.

Arriving at their destination, the first question which arose was that of shelter. Of this there was one universal solution—the log house. The house was built somewhat in this wise: Its walls were of notched logs, and the openings between them were filled with smaller sticks and then plastered over with clay. Its chimney was of rudely-piled stones, or of sticks, plastered on the inside with mud. Its floor was of split logs, with flat side up. Its apartments were formed by blankets suspended from above. Its doors swung on wooden hinges, and its windows, if it had any light apertures at all, were formed of paper, well saturated with grease in order to shed rain.

Until this was completed, they sheltered themselves as best they could, behind trees or shelving rocks. If it was summer, and the weather was fair, this was no very serious matter; but if there came cold, drenching, and long-continued rains, we can but imagine how pitiable was the condition of these exiles. Very many, probably most of them, had been accustomed to comfortable homes.

The abundance of wild game in the woods, and particularly the great number of fish which inhabited the streams, very materially lightened the task of providing for the family.

Wild pigeons, too, at certain times in the year, were often so plentiful that a hundred times as many might be killed as were required for food. But for these two sources of supply, the struggle for existence, there and at that time, would often have seemed hopeless. As it was, the fight was a hard and stern one, and presented an almost immeasurable contrast to the ease and abundance which are now shown on every hand in the thriving towns, the handsome and substantial country homes, the full barns and granaries, and the 'cattle upon a thousand hills,' which bear evidence that the present generation in Northampton County have no practical knowledge of how their forefathers lived."

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JACOB SCHEIMER.

In the name of God, Amen. I Jacob Scheimer, of Lower Saucon township, in the County of Northampton, and the province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, being sick in body, but of sound mind and memory, do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner following:

First:—I give my soul to my dear Redeemer and my body to be buried, and as to my worldly estate and goods, I dispose of after my debts and funeral expenses are paid, in manner following;

I give and bequeath and dispose to my dear wife Elizabeth, one feather bed and its furniture, and fifty pounds to be paid to her out of my estate and plantation on which I now live; and besides, during her remaining my widow, a room in my dwelling house, the third part of the income and profits of my plantation, aforesaid, and the keeping of a riding horse or mare there on; but if she marrieth again then her room and the use of the plantation shall cease, and for the enabling the discharge of this my will and legacies, I give and bequeath unto my sons Jacob and Conrad (subject to the payments, conditions and restrictions herein mentioned) at my decease, the house, plantation husbandry and chattels, unto me appertaining, whereon I now live and land adjoining the same; likewise all my right, title and interest, claim to a certain tract of land, situated in the Forks of Delaware in the County of Northampton, aforesaid, purchased by me of James Eccleston, as by instrument of writing more fully appears, and that the said estate and lands shall be equally divided between my two sons, Jacob and Conrad, and under the within mentioned condition, payments and restrictions, possessed and enjoyed by them, their heirs, and assigns;

Next:—I give and bequeath to my eldest son, Abraham, all my moiety right and title to a saw mill and plantation situated by the river Delaware on Bushkill Creek, about three miles above John Kools; providing he gives my executors a full discharge for all debts due or accruing on the same, as also of all claims, right or title to any other part of my estate; and in case of his refusal or non-compliance to the same, then I bequeath in lieu and instead of the said mill, one shilling sterling value, and no more of my whole estate; and to my son Anthony I give one shilling like value, and a discharge of a debt of ten pounds lately lent him, and no more of my whole estate;

Item:—I give to my daughter Elizabeth Vickerson, the sum of ten pounds, Pennsylvania currency; also to my daughter Mary Shoemaker the sum of ten pounds like currency, also I give and bequeath to my daughter Catharine Young the like sum of ten pounds; and I give to my daughter Sarah the sum of ten pounds, the which sum or legacy shall be paid by my executors unto the above named daughters, their heirs and assigns, at the expiration of nine years. And it is my will and appointment that my son Samuel shall soon after my decease be apprenticed, and by my trustees bound to a tradesman for that purpose until of age, and then I give him, to be paid out of my plantation and estate hereby willed to my sons, Jacob and Conrad, the sum of eighty-seven pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania. And I also appoint and empower my trustees, herein named, to do the same to my son Edward till of age, and then I give him also the sum of eighty-seven pounds, to be paid by my sons, Jacob and Conrad, out of the plantation; and I also hereby appoint the same to be done to my son Peter, until he comes of age of twenty-one years; and then I give and bequeath to him the sum of eighty-seven pounds, like currency and next I give and bequeath to my sons Isaac and John, each the sum of eighty-seven pounds like currency, to be paid unto them, by my sons Jacob and Conrad, when they arrive at the age of twenty years, and if there shall appear to be an overplus or surplus estate belonging to me, and not hereby bequeathed, I give and bequeath and dispose of all such to my eldest son Jacob, and in case of any of these seven children of my present wife should die during their minority, then his or their parts shall be equally divided between my surviving children by my present wife, and not otherwise.

And I also do make, nominate and appoint my son-in-law Michael Shoemaker and my beloved friend Anthony Lerch, to be trustees of this my will, and to have power of binding to trades my sons Samuel, Edward and Peter, but my dear wife to be sole guardian, and to have power to bind to trades my sons Isaac and John. And I do hereby also nominate and ordain and appoint my dear wife, and my son Jacob, and my son Conrad to be executrix and executors of this my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke all former wills by me made, and pronounce and publish and declare this to be my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, do ratify and confirm the same, this tenth day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, seven hundred and fifty-seven.

JACOB SCHEIMER.

FINAL SETTLEMENT OF THE ESTATE OF JACOB SCHEIMER, Deceased.

A PARTICULARLY interesting document is the "final settlement of the estate of Jacob Sheimer, deceased, by Rosina Sheimer and Peter Seip, administrators, May 14th, 1768." It is written on a sheet of unruled paper 13 by 24. The writing is exceptionally well executed, showing that there were some fine penmen in those days. Although the paper is 140 years old, it is still well preserved, though in pieces, as the creases have worn through. There are one or two items completely lost on account of this; the totals are put down as found, although if added it would be found incorrect on account of the items mentioned. The document is a lengthy one, still of sufficient interest to copy in full.

This document, too, shows that the will of Jacob Sheimer, the first, was carried out as directed, and, although his sons, Jacob and Conrad, were named as his executors, it fell to the lot of Rosina (Seip) Sheimer, his daughter-in-law, and her brother, Peter Seip, to finally settle the estate, as Jacob and Conrad had died.

Another fact established by this document is, that both Peter and John, sons of Jacob and Elizabeth Sheimer, died prior to 1768; that Samuel was living at that time; that Elizabeth, second wife of Jacob, was alive April 11th, 1768.

In this document, too, we see that they have dropped the letter "c" in the old name, and have spelled it Sheimer.

We note in this document that the 10 pounds willed by Jacob Sheimer, Senior, to his daughter, Mary (Scheimer) Shoemaker, was paid December, 1766, just nine years after his death, according to his request in the will.

We note, too, that Sarah Scheimer, sister of Mary, both daughters by the first wife, Margaret, was still alive on Nov. 8th, 1766, and received the 10 pounds willed her. Apparently she was still single, and between 35 and 40 years of age.

In his will he says, "it is to be paid in lawful money of Pennsylvania." A pound in those days was equivalent to $2.66 of our present currency. We note in those days they paid in pounds, shillings and pence.

The item, "By the following irrecoverable or lost debts," shows that there were "bad debts" in those days as well as in these.

An interesting item is "Nov. 15th, 1765. By cash paid to Edward Shimer, 87 pounds." Did Rosina hand him the money on their wedding day, or was it before or after? He married Rosina in 1765.

We note, too, that the clergy were not overlooked as in 1764 and 1765 they were remembered by the estate.

We do not suppose they kept "double entry" bookkeeping, or "loose leaf" ledgers, in those days, but one thing is certain, they kept their accounts in good shape and accounted for every penny.

LEWIS GORDON.

ABRAHAM SHIMER.

(The first Shimer born in America.)

ABRAMHAM-PAPEN-SCHEIMER, son of Jacob and Margaret Scheimer, Jacob's first wife, and as far as we know the first American born Shimer, was born at Skippack, Pa. His boyhood days were spent at Skippack and "Shimertown," now known as Redington, Pa.

In 1749, he married Lena Westbrook, who was born, October 15th, 1727, a daughter of Anthony Westbrook, of a representative family in Minisink Township, and a large land proprietor.

The following record of the marriage is found in the Machackemeck (Port Jervis, New York), and Minisink Church in the quaint manner of the times. It is in the original Dutch and in the handwriting of the pastor, Rev. Johannes Casparus Freyenmoet: "Married—1749, Abram Chambers (Scheimer), young man, born at Skippack, to Lena Westbrook, born at Neshotack, and both dwelling at Minisink. Married the 3rd of March by me J. C. Freyenmoet."

They were blessed with one son, Jacob, born February 23rd, 1752; and three daughters: Hester, born December 15th, 1754; Maria, born November 26th, 1756; Elizabeth, born January 28th, 1759.

Abraham Scheimer was an early settler in the valley of the Minisink of historic name. He probably reached the Minisink by the Old Mine Road, originally an Indian trail, but constructed and used by a company of miners from Holland as early as 1650, extending from Kingston on the Hudson, in close connection, by bridle paths with Depui's settlement, in the Minisink, to the Delaware Water Gap; thence to Nazareth; to the Bethlehem lane over the Lehigh to Irish's stone quarry. It was one of the earliest roads, of that extent, on the continent, and was the avenue of communication between the Delaware and Hudson Rivers. The Surveyor General of 1730 speaks of the valley as being already thickly settled, and of their admiration for a grove of apple trees, far exceeding in size any near Philadelphia. This may have been no small inducement, even then, to the young pioneer from Skippack, as it became his permanent home in 1749, when he married Lena Westbrook.

On the death of his father in 1757, he inherited a large tract of land, with a saw mill, located on the Delaware River, at Bushkill Creek, about 20 miles above Stroudsburg, Pa.

In the will of his father the place is located at a point, "three miles above John Cools," now called Bushkill. Mr. Peter A. Shimer, of Easton, Pa., visited the spot in 1898 and met there an old lady of eighty years of age, who showed him the spot where the saw mill had stood and said that John Cool was her grandfather, but that his right name was Coolbaugh; however, he was always known by his neighbors as John Cool.

How long Abraham Scheimer lived here we do not know, but we find him, in 1750, located in New Jersey, opposite Milford, Pa. Here he erected a flouring mill, which had also a saw mill in connection, located on Shiner's Creek, about the same time he erected the first two-story house built in the township. Here he lived at the time of the Indian troubles, 1777, and he acquired a great reputation as a hunter and Indian fighter.

It is said that he had to kill so many Indians that his memory was not strong enough to keep the count, so he fell to keeping a tally of notches on his rifle-stock.

A fireside tale in the family, is found in "Historical Collections" of New Jersey, as communicated to the compiler by Hon. Isaac Bonnell, a grandson: "The savages, one morning, crossed the Delaware in a canoe, while it was yet quite dark, and came to a house, not more than eight rods from where the Captain (Shimer) lived, in which lived a family named Jobes. They tomahawked the three brothers and took the women prisoners, then crossed the creek, went to the house of the Captain, before he was up, and gave their savage yell. He sprang from his bed, armed his slaves, four or five in number, with axes and such other weapons as could be found and ordered them to keep the Indians out of the house.

He then seized his trusty rifle and went aloft, where he rolled a feather bed up before the window, covering all but one pane of glass, through which he shot and laid one of the red skins out, cold and stiff. The bullets from the guns of the savages passed through his whiskers; and he said 'That's d—d close shooting.' The balls of the Indians made many marks in the ceiling and beams. The firing of the Captain's rifle alarmed the militia, which was quartered a mile or two above, and when they arrived, the Indians had started to leave with their prisoners, a few women and one of the Captain's slaves. They were pursued so closely, that they fled, leaving their prisoners; but they still lay around in hiding, determined to kill the Captain, if possible. One morning (I have often heard my grandmother relate), he was pursued by the Indians, but the dog caught one of the Indians, while he was climbing a fence. The Captain escaped, but another Indian shot the dog. I do not think that dog was ever recorded in history." The bullet holes are still seen in the house, and the pane of glass remained in the window until the summer of 1842, when the house was repaired. It is still in the possession of his descendants.

At one time he left home, with his dog, on one of his hunting trips. At evening he selected an overhanging rock under which to spend the night, built a fire to keep wild beasts away, ate his lunch, smoked his pipe and then lay down for the night with his gun by his side and his dog at his feet. He rested well until toward morning, when he was awakened by the snarling of the dog. He found his fire out and his dog crawling closely up to him. He noticed gravel and small stones occasionally rolling over the edge of the rock and the dog, in alarm, was always getting closer and closer to his side. He knew some wild beast must be near, so he took his gun and, bending carefully forward, looked up through the darkness. There he saw two fiery balls looking down at him. He aimed coolly and fired, and down rolled a large panther. His night's rest, however, was finished.

He was always on the lookout for Indians. One day he was in the woods when, all at once, he heard the Indians yell, and he knew they were coming toward him. On this occasion his life was saved by a prostrate hollow tree into which he crawled just in time, for one of the savages passed over the tree in which he lay hidden.

He always said that the Indians could, on a number of occasions have killed him, but, for some reason, they wanted to capture him alive, whether for torture or for some other purpose he never knew.

On his last hunting trip he shot a deer, a large buck. He took out his knife to bleed him, but, as he was about to use it the deer plunged and, with his prongs, hooked and tore an artery in his arm. He fainted with loss of blood and, when found, was so weakened that he never recovered.

Abraham Scheimer was an expert rifleman and hunter, and was Captain of the 3rd Battalion, New Jersey Militia, Army of the Revolution.

On January 10th, 1774, Abraham Shimer bought of Samuel Brineck, four tracts of land lying at Mashepackunt, township of Mantague, New Jersey, for which he paid 673 lbs. proclamation money. The deed is written on parchment, and is recorded in Newton, New Jersey, Book "B" of Deeds, Vols. 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, and 50.

While on an automobile trip, in June, 1908, Mr. Joseph P. Shimer and wife, of Allentown, and the writer and wife, visited this old homestead. Time has wrought many changes in the past 150 years at the old place. About the only thing that remains of the "original homestead" is the well, with its old oaken, iron-bound bucket. The well is 45 feet deep to the water, and the stones around the top of the well are heavily moss-covered, as well as the shingled roof which covers it. The water is the "purest and sweetest that nature can yield," and was greatly enjoyed by the party, who could not refrain from referring to the "Old Oaken Bucket" and remarking that Jacob Shimer, the only son of Abraham, could well say with the author of that well known song:

"That moss-covered bucket I hailed as a treasure,
For often at noon, when returned from the field,
I found it a source of an exquisite pleasure,
The purest and sweetest that nature can yield.
How ardent I seized it with hands that were glowing,
And quick to the white pebbled bottom it fell
Then soon, with the emblem of truth overflowing,
And dripping with coolness it rose from the well."

Near the well, is the rock back of which Abraham Scheimer is said to have hidden while shooting Indians.

All that remains of the old building is the frame, or shell, as it has been remodeled, and additions built to it. The building with its large porches, which have recently been built, has been converted into a summer boarding house and is known as "Shady Glen." The proprietress, Mrs. W. G. Brown, in showing us through the house pointed with a show of pride the old fireplace with the original iron crane from which the pot was hung. Another feature of interest was the bedroom doors. They are heavy, paneled on both sides, and have heavy brass knobs, heavy locks and large keys.

The name "Shady Glen" is well chosen as the house is situated in a glen, and is surrounded on all sides by large shade trees.

At the old homestead of Captain Abraham Shimer, in the Valley of the Minisink, now Montague, N. Y. This well was dug, as far as we could learn by the Captain, when he built his house, 1750, the first two-story dwelling in the township.

At one time the Shimers owned large tracts of land in Mantague Township, and reared large families, principally girls; to-day there are but few, in fact, very few Shimer families in that vicinity.

There is no stone marking the last resting place of Abraham Scheimer, and the place of interment is not positively known, but old residents of that neighborhood say that he is buried in the burying ground connected with the old "Yellow Church" (Dutch Reformed Church, of Minisink, now Montague) a short distance below Brick House Hotel. This old burying ground was abandoned by this church organization when the present site for said church was secured in 1828.

ANTHONY SHIMER.

ANTHONY SHIMER was the second son of Jacob and Margaret Scheimer. He was born between the years 1722 and 30. As yet we have no record of his descendants. His name is mentioned in his stepbrother Conrad's will, at which time he must have been about 35 years old. We find the name of Anthony Shimer as a Captain of the Sixth Battalion under Col. Jacob Stroud, 1777.

JACOB SHIMER.

JACOB SHIMER, the eldest son of Jacob Scheimer and Elizabeth, his second wife, was born in Skippack, Pa., June 4th, 1734. He married Rosina Seip, June 13th, 1758. She was born September 7th, 1739, in Michelstadt, Odenwald, Hesse Darmstadt, Germany, being according to her granddaughter, Mrs. Michael Butz, of Easton, Pa., "of good breeding and well-to-do."

In the spring of 1751, Rosina's eldest brother, Melchior Seip, emigrated and landed in Philadelphia, September 14th, 1751. He settled in the eastern part of what is now Weissenberg Township, Northampton Co., Pa. Among the families that organized the congregation of the Ziegel or Macungie Church, one of the oldest churches in the county, was that of Melchior Seip.

Soon after Melchior Seip emigrated, his father died, and the widow, with her adult son, Peter, her 13-year-old daughter, Rosina, and 11-year-old son, Jacob, followed her son, Melchior, to America. The widowed mother took sick, died and was buried at sea, when within six weeks of their place of destination, the bereaved family landing in Philadelphia, September 22nd, 1752. Peter Seip, with his sister, Rosina, and brother, Jacob, settled where subsequently Seipsville, Northampton County, Pa., was founded.

It is said that Rosina, when she saw the body of her dead mother dropped over the side of the ship into the sea, was so despondent that she attempted to jump in after her. The Captain, however, pulled her back and took her into his cabin and there prayed with her and in every way tried to console her. Many years after when she would relate the incident to her grandchildren the thought of it would bring tears to her eyes.

During the Indian massacre of 1755-56 in and around Northampton County, Jacob Shimer enlisted as a soldier under Captain Jacob Arndt, receiving as pay for his services 13 lbs. 6s. He was named in his father's will as one of the executors.

He occupied the old homestead, at Shimertown, now Redington, Pa. He died according to tradition of smallpox in 1764, at the early age of 30, intestate. His tombstone is the oldest and most interesting in the old Saucon graveyard; it reads as follows:

GRAVE OF JACOB SHIMER.

The larger stone marks the last resting place of Jacob Shimer who was born at Skippack, Pa., June 4th, 1734. He was the first son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer. The stone itself shows the wear of time and is fast falling to pieces. The letters look as if they had been cut in with a jackknife. The grave is at the upper end of the old burying ground at the Lower Saucon Church, Northampton County, Pa.

The smaller stone is nearly crumbled to pieces. There is no inscription left to tell who rests beneath the mound but we have all reasons to believe that it marks the last resting place of Jacob Scheimer, the father of Jacob, the first Shimer to come to America.

The children of this marriage were Peter, born January 20th, 1760; Samuel, born December 5th, 1762; and John, born April 4th, 1764.

Peter married Anna Maria Lerch; his second wife was the widow of Philip Lerch, nee Elizabeth Kratzer. Samuel married Elizabeth Schuelpp (Shilp), April 24th, 1791. John married Salome Von Buskirk.

CONRAD SHIMER.

CONRAD SHEIMER, the second son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, was born about 1736. He is named in his father's will as one of the executors, with his elder brother, Jacob, but he died single, December, 1760, leaving that which his father had left him to Jacob. It appears that the sons of "old Jacob" did not marry young. Conrad was between 24 and 25 when he died, single; his brother, Jacob, was at least 25 when he "took unto himself" Rosina Seip; and Edward was 24 when he was married.

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF CONRAD SHIMER.

In the name of God, Amen. I Conrad Shimer of Lower Saucon Township in the county of Northampton and Province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, being sick in body, but of sound mind and memory do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner following;

First—I give my soul to my dear Redeemer and my body to be buried and as to my worldly estate and goods I dispose of after my debts and funeral charges are paid, in manner following;

In order to discharge my legacies hereinafter mentioned I do give and bequeath unto my brother Jacob Shimer after my death all my whole estate whatsoever, both real and personal given and bequeathed to me by my father, Jacob Shimer's last will and testament.

I will and bequeath unto my four brothers Samuel, Edward, Isaac and John Shimer the sum of 10 pounds unto each of them to be paid in manner following; that is to say, the sum of ten pounds to my brother Samuel on the 27th, day of May next.

Item—The sum of ten pounds to my brother Edward when he arrives to the age of twenty one years

Item—the sum of ten pounds to my brother Isaac and the sum of ten pounds to my brother John to be paid to each of them on the first day of October which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four.

Item—the sum of ten pounds to my brother Anthony Shimer to be paid to him on the 27th day of May next.

Item—I give and bequeath unto my sister Mary Shoemaker and Catharine Young each the sum of four pounds to be paid the 27th day of November ensuing.

And I do also hereby nominate or design and appoint my brother Jacob Shimer to be the executor of this my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke all former wills by me made and pronounce, publish and declare this to be my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal to ratify and confirm the same this third day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty, in the thirty third of His Majesty's reign.

His
(Signed) CONRAD (X) SHIMER

SAMUEL SHIMER.

SAMUEL SHIMER, the third son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, was born about 1738. As yet we have not found any of his descendants, if he had any. His name is mentioned in his brother Conrad's will in 1760. In the "final settlement" of his father's estate, his name is mentioned as receiving money in 1766.

EDWARD SHIMER.

EDWARD SHIMER, the fourth son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, was born February 28, 1741, at "Shimertown," now known as Redington, Pa.

(On the old maps of Northampton County it is spelled Shimertown but on the patent granting lands to Edward Shimer it is spelled Shimerton.) In 1765 he married Rosina (Seip) Shimer, the widow of his brother, Jacob. She was at this time a young widow of 26, with three children and a large estate to look after, as her husband, Jacob, had been the sole executor of his father's estate; Conrad, the other executor named, having died and left all to him.

Edward was a young man of 24 when he married Rosina, and had by this time come into possession of the money which his father had willed him. Besides, by marrying Rosina he became possessor of a large portion of the "original estate," as his father had willed his plantation to Jacob and Conrad.

According to records he bought in 1767 of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a tract of land of 186 acres. In 1775 he built a large stone house, still standing and well preserved, on the "old plantation."

In 1789 he bought 26 acres 80 perches of land from his stepsons, Samuel and John. By this time he must have owned several hundred acres of land as, according to his deed, he owned land before he purchased the 186 acres in 1767.

In those days all young men had to learn a trade. Edward learned to be a saddler, but we have no records to show that he ever followed his trade. He was a good Lutheran, a patriot, and a member of the Revolutionary Committee of Safety, of Northampton County, and Captain in the First Battalion from Northampton County under Col. Geo. Hubner, 1777.

We find among the "Taxables in Northampton County" in 1780, the name of Edward Shimer, and the assessed value of his property is 1207 lbs., which is far above the average; in fact there were but 25 taxable inhabitants in the entire county who were rated higher.

There is an interesting story told about Edward Shimer. In his early life before he was married, he traveled South in the fall and negotiated for a farm with the expectation of settling there the following spring. After returning home, winter set in and grew very cold so that the Lehigh River froze to a great depth, making excellent skating, of which Edward was very fond. Being an excellent skater he undertook racing and kept it up a considerable time. This proved too violent exercise for him. He was afterwards taken ill and suffered severely from the effects of this illness, till some time in the following July. He was left a cripple ever after, suffering in his leg from lameness and eruptions below the knee. This misfortune caused him to abandon his settling in the South. He was afterwards obliged to use a staff or cane in walking. He purchased one with a silver head. It was too gay for him, yet the cane suited him so well that he removed the silver head and replaced it with a round, wooden one and used the cane to the day of his death. He resolved to make a souvenir of it, and requested that after his death it should be given to his oldest son; so John received it and to his dying day, which was when he was 86 years of age, he used it from the time of rising in the morning till lying down to rest at night. After his death it fell into the hands of William, the oldest son of John, and he used it till his death; now it has come to Milton, the oldest son of William, with the understanding that it is to go to Stanley, his only son. The cane is still (1908) well preserved.

For nearly one hundred years Edward and Rosina have now been resting side by side in their old home orchard under large slabs covered with German inscriptions, in a wall-enclosed private burial ground.

Following are the inscriptions on the slabs of Edward and Rosina Scheimer:

Hier ruhet in Gott

Here rests in God
EDWARD SCHEIMER

He saw the light of this world in 1741, the 28th of Feb. He ended his pilgrimage on earth as elder in the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation in Lower Saucon on the 16th of Feb., 1815, after he had brought the same to 74 years. His body accompanied by many mourners, was given back to earth, on which occasion an impressive sermon was preached on 2 Tim. 4:—7, 8. "I have fought a good fight, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

This is a corner of the wall-enclosed private burying plot on the farm of B. Franklin Shimer (the original farm bought 1740). Here for nearly one hundred years Edward and Rosina Shimer have been resting side by side in their old home orchard under large marble slabs covered with German inscriptions. This plot stands about one hundred yards from the old stone house built by Edward Shimer in 1775 and is still well preserved.

An account of the steps by which the early settlers obtained the right, title and possession of their lands, may not be uninteresting. Having cast about for any unoccupied land that pleased his fancy the colonist made application to the rulers of the province of Pennsylvania for a warrant for the survey of the land selected, paying at the same time a certain per cent. of the purchase money. The prices of the land varied at times. Thus between the years 1744 and 1758 the price per hundred acres was fifteen pounds ten shillings, or forty-one dollars and thirty-three cents, or forty-one cents per acre. About 1762 and 1763, the time of the Indian troubles, the price sank to nine pounds, or twenty-four dollars. In 1765 it rose to its former price of fifteen pounds ten shillings, at which figure it remained but for a short time. In July, 1765, the price fell again to five pounds sterling, or twenty-two dollars and twenty-two cents at which price it was sold till after the close of the Revolutionary war and the return of peace in 1784.

After taking out the warrant the settler had a presumptive title to the land which he secured by paying a portion of the purchase money down as already stated. The warrant in reality was only an instrument giving the surveyor-general of the province authority to survey a tract of land corresponding in quantity to what was asked for in the settler's application. The survey was then made, generally a few months after the issuing of the warrant and a return made to the land office, with a draft attached. Then at the convenience of the colonist, sometimes not for many years after the first steps were taken, the settler paid the balance of the purchase money, and received from the proprietaries of the province a deed-patent for the land surveyed for him. The full title to their lands was thus often not secured by the early settlers till after the lapse of twenty or twenty-five years, from the time when they first settled.

The following agreement of John Shimer, son of Jacob and Rosina Shimer, and stepson of Edward, the ancestor of the Shimer families of Lehigh County, Pa., is both interesting and unique:

JOHN SHIMER.

Sealed and delivered in the presence of John Heller and Robert Traill.

PETER SHIMER.

PETER SHIMER, the fifth son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, was born between 1741 and 1749. His name is mentioned in his father's will, and instructions are given to the trustees to apprentice him to some tradesman for the purpose of learning a trade. His name is not mentioned in his brother Conrad's will, and as his brother mentioned all the others, it is inferred that he must have died prior to that date, namely, 1760. In the "final settlement" of his father's estate, dated 1768, mention is made of his portion of the estate being divided between his two brothers, Samuel and Isaac.

ISAAC SHIMER.

ISAAC SHIMER, the sixth son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, was born August 6th, 1749, at "Shimerton," now Redington, Pa. In 1776 at the age of 27, he joined Washington's army enlisting in Colonel Baxter's battalion, under Captain John Arndt, of the "Flying Camp." He was one of the "boys of the Forks of the Delaware." From the "History of Northampton County" we read the following in reference to the men of the "Flying Camp:"

"Towards the formation of the 'Flying camp' the quota of men to be furnished by Northampton County, was three hundred and forty-six. There was no hesitation in the business of recruiting these; for the patriotic spirit, which had already kindled, became intensified four fold when the announcement at last came that Congress had, on the Fourth of July, snapped asunder the last bond which held Pennsylvania a colony of the crown of England, and the people felt that they were no longer subjects, but citizens, clothed with the attribute of self-government.

Recruits came in freely to the Northampton battalion of Colonel Baxter. So rapidly had the recruiting progressed, since the Act of the fourth of July became known, that, early in August, the Northampton troops joined Washington's army on Long Island. In the battle which occurred there, on the 27th of the month, and which resulted so disastrously to the Americans, THE BOYS FROM THE FORKS OF THE DELAWARE BEHAVED MOST GALLANTLY AND SUFFERED SEVERE LOSS."

In a journal kept at Bethlehem, in those days, we find the following:—"September 2-6. In these days, parties of militia on their return from New York, passes, bringing the intelligence that a battalion from the county had suffered

Tombstone of Isaac Shimer, in the cemetery at the old Williams Township Church, Northampton County, Pa. There are a number of Shimers buried in the cemetery severely at the engagement with the British, on Long Island, on the 27th of August last, having left most of its men either dead or wounded." At the Fort Washington fight, November 16th, 1776, their list of casualties was still greater.

Following are the names and rank of those killed or taken at Fort Washington, November 16th, 1776: 1st Lieut., Joseph Martin; 3rd Lieut., Isaac Shimer; Drummer, John Arndt, Sr.; Fifer, Henry Allshouse; Privates, John Wolf, Christian Rodt, and many others are mentioned.

There is no doubt but that the sons of Jacob Scheimer were loyal patriots. Isaac was a 3rd Lieutenant when captured in the battle of Fort Washington; whether he was elected to that position before leaving Easton, or whether promoted for bravery at the battle of Long Island, we do not know.

Of the battle of Long Island a writer has said, "The battle of Long Island was the Thermopylae of the Revolution and the Pennsylvania Germans were the Spartans." Isaac Shimer survived the battle of Long Island, but was made a prisoner at Fort Washington. It is said that he was confined on an island, but escaped by swimming though discovered and fired upon while in the water.

After his service of seven years in the army he returned to Williams township, where he became one of the most prominent men of his day, in all that country. For 27 years he was Justice of the Peace; he was a sober, upright and industrious man. At his funeral, which was a very large one, there was a big feast, as was the custom of that time. He was 88 years old when he died. On his tombstone, which is in the cemetery of the Williams Township Church, is the following:

He was twice married. His first wife was a Miss Gettart, who died without issue. His second wife was Elizabeth Kichline. The children of this marriage were Jacob, born September 16, 1783; Elizabeth; Nancy; Susan, born April 23, 1788; Pollie (Mary), born Feb. 29, 1792; and Sarah, born June 21, 1794.

Jacob married Hettie Breinig; Elizabeth married Frederick Hartman; Nancy married Jacob Carpenter; Pollie married Joseph Carpenter, brother of Frederick; Susan married Christian Laubach, and Sarah married John Knoble.

JOHN SHIMER.

JOHN SHIMER, the seventh son of Jacob and Elizabeth Scheimer, and thirteenth child of Jacob, was born at "Shimerton" about 1751. His father was at this time over 70 years of age. In his father's will specific instructions are given that his wife, Elizabeth, is to be sole guardian and have power to apprentice his son, John. His name is mentioned in his brother Conrad's will in 1760. He died, however, before 1768, as his portion of his father's estate was given to Edward, Samuel and Isaac, as per "final settlement of the estate of Jacob Scheimer, deceased, May 14th, 1768."

With the will of Jacob Scheimer in which he mentions his children by name as well as states "by my present wife," showing that he was twice married, and with the "final settlement of the estate of Jacob Scheimer" we feel confident that we have a foundation laid that can not be disputed; besides, we know the last resting places of three of his sons by his second wife, Elizabeth. Jacob, the first son, lies buried at Lower Saucon Church; Edward, in the private burying plot at Redington; and Isaac, at Williams Township Church.

There is no doubt that the sons of Jacob Scheimer were loyal patriots. Abraham, his first born, by his first wife, Margaret, was a Captain of the 3rd Battalion New Jersey Militia, Army of the Revolution. Anthony, second son, was a Captain of the 6th Battalion under Col. Jacob Stroud, 1777. Jacob, his first son by the second wife, Elizabeth, was a soldier during the time of the Indian massacres; Isaac was a Lieutenant in Colonel Baxter's battalion of the "flying camp," and Edward was a member of the "Committee of Safety" of Northampton County, and Captain in the first Battalion from Northampton County under Col. Geo. Hubner.

SHINER REUNION, SEPTEMBER 3rd 1906, OAKLAND PARK, PA

REUNIONS.

MOST beginnings are small and this is true of the Shimer Reunions. It may, perhaps, be said that these had their beginning in those little picnics of a few congenial families at the oldest Shimer homestead of all, that one built in 1775 by Edward Shimer on the uplands above Redington, Pa. The first of these was held in 1898 and those who were there had no thought of anything so ambitious as a "reunion." They went to enjoy a day's outing, to see the old place and to pay their respects to Mr. B. Franklin Shimer, since deceased, who was then the bright and active owner.

After visiting the old stone house and wall-enclosed graveyard in the orchard where Edward and Rosina Shimer have been resting these many years, the party carried their lunch baskets down to the glen and placed them near the spring.

Mr. Shimer acted as guide, and pointed out the place where, according to tradition, "the Indinas used to polish their gun barrels." There were two parallel grooves upon a large rock, which was about two feet from the edge of the brook, with a strip of sand between. There were some present who were somewhat skeptical about the "gun barrel" part of the story, as it would be much easier to believe that here the Indians ground those stone tomahawks sometimes found in the nearby fields, for the convenient proximity of water, sand and the grooves in the rock suggested this most naturally.

The glen and brook, with narrow meadow and ancient trees, were very picturesque. Here, too, were seen the sites of an old dam and linseed mill, a side industry of the Shimers of long ago.

Some excellent photographs were taken of groups in those old surroundings, which the possessors value more highly from year to year, especially since some of the older ones then present, have been gathered to their fathers.

The lunch at the spring was, as always, very good, and the afternoon passed all too quickly. The older ones talked of old times, while the younger ones romped around and waded in the brook.

There were a number of those little Shimer picnics in the years that followed, sometimes at Redington and sometimes at the other old homestead, built by Jacob Shimer, son of Edward and Rosina Shimer, in 1801, which somehow seemed much nearer to us, probably, because those who were born and reared there were our grandfathers whom we knew in the flesh. It is a grand old place.

In those days, more than a hundred years ago, the fathers built great houses of stone, simple and effective in architecture, surrounded by trees and gardens, in the midst of their broad acres. In them they reared large families of sturdy sons and daughters. Though Jacob Shimer was a farmer, and there was none better, there are many things which indicate that this old home was one of peculiar refinement. This we safely infer from the gentle and lovable character of all those reared there. This is also shown by a remark of "Aunt Butz," Jacob Shimer's only daughter, Elizabeth, who once said, "I had seven brothers and never had an unkind word from one of them."

A gathering of Shimers, August 13th, 1898, at the old original "Shimer plantation" bought 1740. This was one of the first Shimer gatherings, and as we contemplate the scene, the happy faces and sylvan surroundings, we think of Longfellow's:

Pleasant it was, when woods were green
And winds were soft and low,
To lie amid some sylvan scene,
Where, the long drooping boughs between,
Shadows dark and sunlight sheen
Alternate come and go ;

Or where the denser grove receives
No sunlight from above,
But the dark foliage interweaves
In one unbroken roof of leaves,
Underneath whose sloping eaves
The shadows hardly move

The Shimer picnics seemed to be getting larger from year to year, and, in 1905, at this old homestead, an organization was effected by the election of the following officers: President, Allen R. Shimer, of Bethlehem, Pa.; Vice-President, Porter W. Shimer, of Easton, Pa.; Secretary, Howard E. Shimer, of Nazareth, Pa.; and Treasurer, Stewart A. Shimer, of Bethlehem, Pa. From this on the larger reunions began, thus far held at Oakland Park, a place appropriate in a way, for it lies in the midst of the many hundred acres owned by the Shimers there in early times. It is hoped, however, that these reunions may remain simple and unostentatious, with unbounded self respect, as befits the character of the family, for in this way only can the interest be kept perennial.

A gathering of Shimers, 1902, at one of the "Old Shimer Homesteads," Dry Land, Northampton County, Pa., situated about three miles below Bethlehem; built by Jacob Scip Shimer, 1801. This picture was taken after the gathering had listened to the reading of the will of Jacob Scheimer (1st), the ancestor of the Shimer family in America, and the singing of the hymns, "America" and "Blest be the tie that binds." It was at this meeting that the question was asked, "What relation am I to you?" the starting point of this work.

A gathering of Shimers, 1905, at the "Old Shimer Homestead," Dry Land, Northampton County, Pa. At this old "homestead" the Shimers held their gatherings for a number of years. It was at this gathering, that the "Shimer Reunion Association" was formed by the election of the following officers: President, ALLEN R. SHIMER, Bethlehem, Pa., Vice-President, PORTER W. SHIMER, Easton, Pa., Secretary, HOWARD E. SHIMER, Nazareth, Pa.; Treasurer, STEWART A. SHIMER, Bethlehem, Pa.

The writer wishing to have the views of others on the question of these reunions, corresponded with Edgar Dubs Shimer, of New York, asking for his impression of the reunion held in 1907. Following is his reply:

Dear Cousin Allen:

You ask me to give you my impression of the Shimer Reunion held in August, 1907, at Oakland Park, near Easton, Penna. Allow me to reply that the varied experiences of that day rise vividly in my memory at the slightest suggestion and give me a thrill of pleasurable emotion.

In the first place the great natural beauty of the grove attracted me. As we wandered down the winding aisles in the shadow of this aged wood toward the booth in which we finally gathered, it seemed as though we were entering one of God's first temples. The heart could not resist the sacred influence of the grandeur, strength and grace of the venerable columns, the gray old barked trunks that stretched high up to heaven massy and tall and dark, swaying their verdant tops to the breeze. It was a happy thought to select such a simple, charming and accessible spot for the friendly intercourse, the jolly companionship and the intimate communion of a family gathering.

The sight of familiar and half forgotten faces, the warm hand-clasp, the hearty voice of welcome from the buoyant and the sturdy, and the gentler tones of loved ones plainly aging, soon focused all thought and feeling on the purely human aspect of life. Long buried memories were resurrected, and the tide of sentiment ran strong. Humor and pathos took the stage by turns. Laughter was intermingled with tears. Yet at all times there was song in the air, and the dominant note was joyous and hopeful. Who ever saw a Shimer that was not fundamentally a creature of joy and of hope and, I may add, of affection?

The size of the company astonished me, especially in view of the sudden vexatious postponement of the meeting set for a previous day, but made impossible because of unpropitious weather. It was a magnificent demonstration of loyalty to an idea, namely, that blood is after all thicker than water.

The cynic of the outer world may say with a sneer, "Go to strangers for money, to your friends for advice, and to your relatives for nothing." The testimony of the Shimers, so far as my experience and observation are of value, runs counter to any such dictum.

The very spirit that promotes and successfully perpetuates such annual reunions repudiates utter selfishness and fosters a Christian altruism which blossoms in family life for fuller fruitage in the larger life of the state. This is the rich heritage of the Teuton, and if for no other reason than this every Shimer should be proud of his Teutonic lineage.

Differences no doubt exist among the members of our family, in common with all other families, but underlying all these there is a community of sentiment that makes for solidarity. This fact impressed me profoundly as the evidences of its truth poured in upon me from all directions, and I gloried in the consciousness of the supreme power that comes to the individual self from the feeling that there is a larger self beside him, that of the family, to give him moral support.

Mere pride of birth is vanity, but the consciousness of being one of a family possessed of noble ideals and worthy ambitions, clearly held in view and persistently striven after, is far from vain. It calls for all that is good in its possessor, and tends to establish a pride in family of which no one needs be ashamed. This is the deepest and most abiding impression made upon me at the Shimer Reunion of 1907.

Let us say with St. Paul, in all humility of spirit, "I magnify my office." In other words, let us say with proper grace and becoming modesty, but with the firmness of a well ordered pride born of a full conviction, "I am a Shimer, therefore— —."

You may remember that I played upon the letters of the name by making them stand in their order for a series of qualities; as sober, honest, industrious, manly, energetic and reliable; or sincere, honorable, indefatigable, masterful, exemplary and reasonable; or, social, hearty, intelligent, moral, emotional and religious. Now riddle me this riddle in acrostic. What should a Shimer be?

Social as becomes a man;
Honest through and through;
Instant always in his plan;
Masterful to do;
Exemplary as he can;
Righteous, just and true.

Last but not least by any means, my dear Allen, I was strongly impressed with the feeling that we all owe you a debt of gratitude for the energy with which you have labored to unify the sentiment that unmistakably pervades the Shimer family, and to provide fitting opportunity for the proper expression and consequent strengthening of that sentiment. May you keep the fire constantly burning on your altar, and may the fragrance of the incense thrown upon it permeate our entire kith and kin.

So may we all for many a year
Have memories in mind
In which bright glories shall appear
Mementos fitly shrined;
Endearments of reunion cheer,
Rewards for love of kind.

Whatever else we may do, let us continue to cherish the spirit of family fellowship.

Yours affectionately,

EDGAR DUBS SHIMER.

JOHN CONRAD SHYMER.

JOHN CONRAD SHIMER (Shymer) came to these shores in 1732, with his wife, Anna Margaret, and daughter, Maria. They came on the ship "Johnson of London" which sailed from Rotterdam, September 19, 1732.

Conrad Shimer, as he was known, settled in Vincent Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, where he acquired considerable property and was a prominent citizen.

As he had but the one child, a daughter, Maria, his branch of the Shimer family became extinct. Maria married a Mr. Shunk, of whom Governor Francis R. Shunk, of Pennsylvania, 1845-48, was a descendant.

In the "Trappe Church Book" of Trappe, Pa., are the following entries: Herleman, Johann Conrad, son of Sebastian and Maria Magdalena; born, September 29, 1742; baptized, October 17, 1742. Sponsors, John Conrad Scheimer and wife Anna Maria.

Schunck, Anna Margaretha, daughter of Simon and Anna Magdalena; born, April 2, 1749; Baptized May 1, 1749. Sponsor Conrad Scheimer's wife Anna Margaretha.

Following is his will:

In the name of God, Amen. I, Conrad Shymer of Vincent Township, Chester County and State of Pennsylvania being sick in body but of perfect mind and memory thanks be to God for the same do make and ordain this my last will and testament in the manner following viz;

First; I give and bequeath to Anna Margaret Shymer my beloved wife this my place or plantation whereon I now live to have and to hold the same with all the movables in her possession during her life. And to keep with her Charles Guss, Junior, for him to farm this place during her life and to receive for his trouble the one third part of the income of the place and after her death he the said Charles Guss, Junior, shall be the only one heir of this place and moveables.

Secondly; I give and bequeath to my grandchildren Isaac and Peter Shunk my place in Pikeland Township to be equally between them divided and each of them to give of their one half of that place to my grand child Conrad Shunk one hundred pounds lawfull money of Pennsylvania in the following manner, viz; namely twenty-five pounds per year. And the payments to begin at the time they get possession.

Thirdly; I give and bequeath and ordain to be given out of my estate to the Protestant Lutheran Church in Pikeland Township this side of French Creek, two hundred pounds, lawfull money of Pennsylvania.

Fourthly; Isaac Shunk and Anna Margaret Shymer whom I hereby constitute make and ordain my executors shall sell and cause to be sold after my death my place in Vincent Township whereon George Snyder now lives as also my right over place in Philadelphia County.

Fifthly; The above named executors shall lawfully gather and recover all moneys to me due by either bonds, notes or book accounts and distribute or divide it all equally among my six grand-children in equal shares, but yet so that the above said Isaac, Peter and Conrad Shunk draw the above mentioned shares first before such common and general distribution take place.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twentieth day of July, one thousand seven hundred and eighty. 1780

Signed sealed and published and - declared by the said Conrad Shymer as his last will and testament in presence of us.

FREDERICK, DANIEL AND MICHAEL SHIMER,

"The Three Brothers."

FREDERICK, Daniel and Michael Shimer came to America in 1749. They sailed on ship "Edenburg" starting from Rotterdam, September 15, 1749.

They settled in Northern Maryland, and Chester and Bedford Counties, Pa. Frederick Shimer married Mary Magdelane - ; her Christian name only is known. They settled in Chester County, Pa. Their union was blessed with eleven children, seven sons and four daughters, Conrad, Daniel, Bartholomew, Michael, Frederick, John and Peter, Elizabeth, Catharine, Mary and Barbara.

Those early settlers had "troubles of their own," and we find unscrupulous agents took advantage of them, just the same as they do to-day. The following account gives us some ideas of what they had to contend with, while trying to secure their homes:

In 1773 Andrew Allen, merchant of Philadelphia, made an agreement with certain German emigrants who arrived at Philadelphia to sell them farms. The said Andrew Allen being the nominal possessor of Pikeland, Chester County, Pa. The real owner of Pikeland was, however, a London merchant by the name of Samuel Hoare. Allen being a nominal possessor by virtue of a mortgage given the said Hoare.

Allen was a great society man, president of one of the Fox Hunting Clubs, of Philadelphia, and a spendthrift generally. These German emigrants purchased their farms and paid for same on the installment plan, paying the installments on their property from time to time, but neglected the back searches to the titles of the property.

Andrew Allen became a member of the Continental Congress during the Revolution. When Lord Howe got to Trenton, Allen turned traitor and fled from the country, and never paid off the mortgage.

There were 113 emigrants who took up the land in Pikeland Township on the installment principle. After the Revolution the Sheriff of Chester County sold out all these emigrants, rendering them homeless and also sold the St. Peter's

Lutheran Church, which was on the Pikeland property and which was built by the emigrants. This was a widespread disaster. Some of the families managed to raise a little money to pay part on their property, and the balance was mortgaged. Among these was Frederick Shimer, whose will was probated September 19, 1807, which reads as follows:

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF FREDERICK SHIMER.

In the name of God, Amen. I, Frederick Shimer of Pikeland Township, Chester County and State of Pennsylvania, considering the uncertainty of this mortal life and being of sound disposing mind and memory, blessed be Almighty God for the same, do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and form following (to-wit)

First; I order my just debts and funeral expenses to be paid by my executors. (Item) I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Mary Magdelane, the one half of all the profits of produce of my plantation of whatever may be raised thereon during her natural life and the two back rooms in my dwelling house belowstairs and the small back room on the second story with the privilege of cellar, garret and entry with free egress and regress to and from the same as she may choose, to have a sufficient quantity of fire wood cut and drawn home to the house and cut short suitable for the fire place, two cows and a heifer of her choice of two of my best hogs and the privilege of choosing and keeping two forever after during her life and as much of my kitchen and room furniture as she may choose to keep during her life.

(Item) I give and bequeath to my eldest son Conrad, two hundred pounds. My best horse and a good bridle and saddle.

(Item) I give and bequeath to my son Daniel, a feather bed, bedstead and bedding, and twenty-five pounds.

(Item) I order my executor and it is my will that they sell all my real and all my personal estate not already disposed of within one year after my wife decease and put to use the one eleventh part thereof on good security and pay the interest arising therefrom to my son Bartholomew yearly and every year during his natural life and at his decease to be equally divided among his heirs.

(Item) I give and bequeath all the remaining part of my estate to my children hereafter mentioned, to wit, my sons, Conrad, Daniel, Michael, Frederick, John and Peter, and daughters Elizabeth, Catherine, Mary and Barbary, to be equally divided between them share and share alike. Except my son Michael who is to pay all his just debts to my executors that he may owe to me at my decease and have fifty pounds less than any of my last above mentioned children.

And lastly I nominate and appoint my beloved wife Mary Magdale executrix and my son Conrad and my son-in-law George Young, executors of this my last will and testament, giving to them or either of them full power in or about the same, hereby revoking and disannulling all other former will or wills by me made ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will.

In witness whereof the said Frederick Shimer hereto set his hand and seal this tenth day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seven. (1807)

Executed by the said Frederick Shimer, as his last will in the presence of Peter Hartman Sep. 19, 1807.

FREDERICK SHIMER (Seal)

In looking over the "History of Chester County" we find in 1771, the name of Frederick Shimer contributing one pound towards building a new church in Pikeland Township, St. Peter's Lutheran. The original subscription paper being written in German, his name is spelled "Scheimer."

His descendants live principally in Philadelphia, Chester, Bedford and Blair Counties.

Daniel Shimer settled in Northern Maryland, just across the line of what was at that time Bedford County, Pa. He was a blacksmith by trade. He had five children, three sons and two daughters, Jacob, James, Ezekeal, Susanna and Elizabeth. A number of his descendants migrated to the far west.

The genealogy in tabulated form will appear in later issue.

Michael Shimer married a Miss Ash, daughter of Adam Esch, of Coventry, Chester County, Pa. He settled on a tract of 270 acres of land along the Schuylkill River in Vincent Township, Chester County, Pa., now the site of Spring City. He died young leaving one son, Adam, and three daughters. One married Jacob Keller, another married Henry Hipple, and the third married a Mr. Sypherd.

The genealogy in tabulated form will appear in later issue.

More of these "three brothers," and of their descendants will appear in our next editions.
